

South Central Regional Transportation Planning Organizations Regional Transportation Improvement Program Recommendations (RTIPR) for NMDOT District 1 2022-2023

What is the RTIPR?

The Regional Planning Organization is the federally approved method for the State of New Mexico to determine regional transportation needs in consultation with local elected officials through a continuing, cooperative and comprehensive (3C) planning process.

The following lists of transportation projects, the Regional Transportation Improvement Program Recommendations (RTIPR), are the result of a continuous, multi-year, prioritization process for the review, rating and ranking of proposed transportation projects for recommended inclusion in the Statewide Transportation Improvement Program (STIP), Scenic Byways, Highway Safety Improvement Program (HSIP) and Safe Routes to School (SRTS) Programs. Local-led projects under these funding categories are required to be on this list to be considered for funding.

All highway improvement projects constructed with federal funds must be included in the Statewide Transportation Improvement Program (STIP), a list of funded projects updated quarterly and available on the NM Department of Transportation website.

Key: New Projects

Roadway Project Recommendations:

The Roadway category funds construction, improvement, and other transportation-related projects on roads functionally classified Interstate, Principal Arterial, Minor Arterial, Major Collector and on roads functionally classified as local or Minor Collectors, under certain conditions.

Note: Required Local Government Match is subject to change by FHWA at the time of agreement.
